Doing Good Work Cleaning "Birds" At County Jail

Mr. Merrihew Applies Same Method
Used in Keeping Poultry Free
From Vermin and Makes Fine
Progress—Other Cleanly, Methodical and Improvements.

Mr. Merrihew, night jailer at the county house, has had considerable experience with one kind of bird in the town of Kingston and now he is having more experience with another kind of bird in the county house. Mr. Merrihew is somewhat of a poultryman and is accustomed to handling that kind of bird. His problems at the county jail are somewhat of a similar nature and by applying the same methods for cleanliness at the jail that he applied at his poultry plants he believes that it is possible to have a clean room at the jail as well as at the poultry house.

During the past few weeks there has been a great deal of work done about the county house and jail. Painters have been at work, electricians have been busy and water and disinfectants cleaning up the unwholesome visitors who inhabit the jail. Mr. Merrihew believes that once the place is cleaned of the various kinds of unwholesome visitors they may be kept away by using the same method of procedure which is applied in a poultry house; that is, constant cleaning and thorough disinfecting of the premises at frequent intervals.

Human "Roost" Bigger Problem.

However, since the inmates of the county jail are constantly coming and going, the problem of keeping the "roost" clean is the considerably greater than in a hen roost. It is not an uncommon thing this time of year to have the tramp cells of the jail filled to capacity. Nights of unwholesome people having a new place of abode each night are a problem, for each night a fresh crop of the stock is liable to make its appearance in the tramp block. Even in the jail proper where the population is more or less permanent new inmates are constantly being admitted and although every precaution is made to have them bathed and dressed on admission to jail there is always a chance of various kinds of the stock being turned loose to inhabit the jail.

Use Disinfectants Freely.

Mr. Merrihew believes in thoroughly disinfecting the place, the bedding, mattresses and furnishings.

All blankets are spread on the floor and thoroughly disinfected at frequent intervals to kill all vermin and insects. Blankets not in use are then folded close and piled up where the disinfectant may do its work. Bedding is being frequently cleaned and all sheets are removed and washed once a week.

The tramp cell and police lock-up are thoroughly cleaned each day and at frequent intervals a hose is put on and the entire place flushed out and scrubbed.

Cleaning and Painting.

That portion of the jail known as the women's quarters will be thoroughly cleaned and painted and several of the smaller rooms in the old jail portion of the building will be painted and cleared out to be used for storage purposes. The corridor leading to the men's jail and the corridor leading to the jail kitchen in the basement are being repainted. In the cell several rooms used for storage purposes and the two rooms used for storage of confiscated liquors and other articles in raids are being cleaned and renovated.

Work has been done and is being done by Mr. Merrihew and his assistants. Mr. Merrihew only asks for a couple of extra men and then he will welcome the most thorough of prison inspectors and is sure that the report of the inspector will be a most favorable one.

Install Shower Baths.

Shower baths, recommended some time ago by prison inspectors, will shortly be installed as the work is now being done by a force of plumbers and electricians.

The jail kitchen, located in the basement, is also coming in for its portion of the clean-up process and is now in shape and open condition under the supervision of Cook Sagard and his assistants.

Inside the jail portion of the building much work is also being done by the supervisors' committee. The front office, which had not been cleaned in many years, has been renovated and is now in use. Judge Parker's office has been re-painted and the back office and corridor leading to the jail entrance have been renovated. Workmen are now painting the back office and are also painting the conduct of the court's business. During this renovation and cleaning under Sheriff Sagard has moved his desk to the new office.

Work Jail Bedding.

In order to carry on the program of cleanliness the committee has purchased a washing machine to care for the washing of the jail bedding. The machine, installed in the basement, takes care of the washing each week, which is done by hand.

The installation of all bedding in the building a year ago permits the new room of the jail being used as a dry room for bedding.

With the start of program carried out for a few weeks more, Sheriff

Lincoln Shrine At Mother's Grave

Indiana Plans National Shrine at Lincoln City, Where Martyred President's Mother Is Buried.

Lincoln City, Ind., Feb. 11 (AP).—A national shrine is to be reared at the Indiana scene where Abraham Lincoln spent his formative years and where his mother lies buried.

At the age of seven, Lincoln came with his parents from Kentucky into the wilderness just north of the Ohio river where this village now stands. All the schooling he had was obtained here, and in the adjacent hills and woodlands he learned the pioneer art of rail splitting.

He was nine when he helped his father hew the rude coffin in which Nancy Hanks Lincoln, his mother, was buried under the elms and oaks.

Today two tombstones stand where the Lincoln could put only a humble wooden marker, and a modest stone, behind the village school house designates the site of one of the two log cabins in which the Lincoln lived until Abe was 21. The first of the stones now standing at Nancy Hanks' grave was not erected until after Lincoln's death. Its inscription tells that it honors "Nancy Hanks Lincoln, Mother of President Lincoln, died October 5, A. D. 1818, Aged 35 Years."

The other stone, erected later outside the iron fence which encloses the grave, is head-high and broader.

About this unimposing scene Indiana purposes to build a nobler symbol of Lincoln's hooded years. Richard Lieber, director of the state department of conservation, heads the committee of 125 appointed by Governor Ed Jackson to comprise the Indiana Lincoln Union, directing the enterprise. A host of native Indians of note are allied in the effort, among them being Will H. Hays, George Ade, Kent Cooper, Albert J. Beveridge, Booth Tarkenton and Thomas Taggart.

The state now owns 70 acres surrounding the grave of Lincoln's mother. It intends to acquire 20 acres more, encompassing the sites of the two Lincoln cabins.

Prohibition Laws And Church Duty

Themes of Addresses at Men's Dinner of Trinity M. E. Church by Judge Hasbrouck and the Rev. P. C. Weyant.

Supreme Court Justice G. D. B. Hasbrouck, the Rev. P. C. Weyant and the Rev. D. H. Piper were the speakers at the annual turkey dinner given by the men of Trinity M. E. Church in the Sunday school room of the church on Friday evening, and all of the speakers emphasized the importance of being loyal to the church and its teachings.

As the dinner preceded Lincoln's birthday the dining tables were decorated with small American flags while the walls of the room were draped with the national colors. The dinner itself was an excellently cooked and excellently served turkey dinner with all the trimmings and was brought to a close with the serving of apple pie and ice cream. The dinner had been prepared by the ladies of the church whose reputation as good cooks is widely known.

During the serving of the dinner an orchestra rendered a fine musical program and the dinner was led in community singing by George Ribble, who also sang several solos including "Mighty Lak a Rose." The invocation was by the Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis, of the Roadside Presbyterian Church, and after the serving of the dinner Harry H. Fleming of Trinity M. E. Church presided as toastmaster.

The Law's Restrictions.

Judge Hasbrouck called attention to the situation in England and Russia at the present time and said that our greatest menace was our great wealth. He said that prohibition was one of the most important questions before the country today. You could wear any kind of clothes you liked in this country but the law would not allow you to go nude; you could eat anything you wanted, but the law would not allow you to eat game out of season; you could live anywhere you wanted but the law would not allow you to maintain a public nuisance where you lived; you could drink anything you wanted but the law said it should not contain over one and one-half per cent of alcohol.

There were many people who thought the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution was an infringement of our liberty, and some had made the statement that there would be a dry and a wet candidate for president at the next presidential election. Personally, said Judge Hasbrouck, he did not believe that either party, Democrat or Republican, would have the bravery to come out for nullification.

With the coming of prohibition statistics from a reputable source showed a decrease in crime in the country. Prohibition had helped the laboring man and it had helped business industries. Today the laboring man brings his pay envelope home instead of spending it in the saloon. The laboring man can be depended upon to report for work on a Monday morning, while in the old days he was likely to go on a bender with his money and not show up for work until several days later.

Quizzing Governor Smith.

Judge Hasbrouck said that New York state had a candidate for president and he would place him on the witness stand, and then the judge in an imaginary conversation with Governor Smith asked him a number of questions; the answers and questions bringing a storm of applause from the diners.

The great need of the country today was for the people to be loyal to the church and its teachings. Judge Hasbrouck said that he went to church every Sunday because when a small boy his father had taken him to church with him. In closing Judge Hasbrouck paid a high tribute to Abraham Lincoln.

Help Put Across Church Plans.

The Rev. P. C. Weyant, former pastor for six years of Trinity M. E. Church, and now pastor of the Park Avenue Methodist Church in New York city, gave an inspiring address, urging that the church needed the earnest work of the laymen in putting across the plans of the church.

The Rev. D. H. Piper, present pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, also emphasized the points made by the Rev. Mr. Weyant in a brief address which was illuminated by a witty story.

The dinner was brought to a close with the singing of America.

At the close the Rev. Mr. Weyant, who was one of the most popular preachers that Trinity Church ever had, was given an enthusiastic ovation and welcome in the open present.

The dinner was one of the most successful ever held by the men of the church.

Lincoln Stories Told by Depew

Votes of 300,000 New York State Soldiers With Union Forces in 1864 Were Collected By Chauncey
M. Depew With Aid of Lincoln.

New York, Feb. 12 (AP).—Several Lincoln stories came today from Chauncey M. Depew, former United States senator and noted story teller himself.

Votes of 300,000 New York state soldiers serving with Union forces in 1864 were collected by Depew.

For information as to procedure Depew consulted Elihu B. Washburne, one of Lincoln's intimates, after failing to get help from Secretary Stanton.

"Lincoln," Washburne told Depew, "is not only a great President, but he is a great politician, and if there was no other way of collecting those votes he would go around with a carpet bag and get them himself."

Lincoln's aid was enlisted, and the ballots were collected.

John Ganson, western New York lawyer, a war Democrat who supported Lincoln, was a fine looking, dignified man, with an impressive way of talking, but he had no spear of hair on his head or anywhere else on his face.

Ganson, sharing common worries during one of the trying days of the war, approached the President. Depew relates, and insisted on first information on the situation at the front.

"Ganson, how clean you shave!" was Lincoln's reply.

Abandoned Trunk Held Four Skulls

Police Think Theory Plausible That
They Were Obtained by Robbing
Graves But It Does Not Explain
Blood Clot on Hair Braid.

Detroit, Feb. 12 (AP).—Doubtful whether four skulls and two braids of hair, one blood clotted, found in an abandoned trunk in a house in Royal Oak were those of slain women or had been stolen from graves, police today enlisted aid of authorities in Illinois, Pennsylvania and Ohio in an effort to locate James N. Coyner, alias Ed Grayton, believed to be the owner of the trunk.

The skulls were found by children of a negro family which recently moved into the house, the last previous occupant of which was Coyner, who left Royal Oak about a year ago.

Detroit detectives assisting Royal Oak officials today uncovered a clue which they believe might assist materially in finding Coyner. Mrs. Sally Smith, owner of the house where the trunk was found, said she saw a clipping from a Chicago paper several months ago describing the arrest and conviction of a man under the name of Ed Grayton, in Palestine, Ill., for grave robbery. She declared Coyner had been known under the name of Ed Grayton here and to Palestine to take work in a pottery concern. The article said the man had been sentenced to a long term of imprisonment. The woman did not recall the prison, but she expressed the opinion he now was in an Illinois institution.

The chief of police at Palestine said that he recalled no such name or case, but planned a check of records at the request of Michigan authorities.

Police said that Mrs. Smith's story, if authenticated, would make more plausible the theory that the skulls and braids were obtained by robbing graves. They pointed out, however, that such a theory did not explain the blood clot on the one braid of hair.

Harvard Students Stage Riot After Midnight Show

Two Policemen and Several Harvard Students Bruised in Riot Which Followed Midnight Vaudeville Show—Forty-One Held in Small Halls.

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 12 (AP).—Harvard students and other men battled with police officers who tried to quell a riot in Harvard Square today. Two policemen and several students were bruised considerably but no one was seriously hurt. Forty-one arrests were made, including 29 students, and in court today all were held in small bonds for a hearing on February 18.

Eight of the students furnished $100 bonds each. Bail for the others was nominal. A number of them appeared in court with their heads bandaged.

The police said that the origin of the trouble was obscure and that apparently it started merely in a display of exuberance after the close of a midnight vaudeville performance in the University Theatre, open to both students and residents of the city. There had been considerable disturbance at the performance but not enough to lead to any complaint from the theatre management.

Efforts would be made, the police said, to put a stop to entertainments late at night which they thought were likely to lead to disturbances. They had never had any trouble, they added, from entertainments open only to students.

It was announced at the court that Dean Chester N. Greenough had requested a continuance of all cases against the Harvard students but it was not indicated what action, if any, was planned by the college.

The news that Arthur French, star football player, was one of those arrested brought scores of students to the police stations who pooled their resources to bail their friends.

Battle Lasted an Hour.

The battle in the square lasted about an hour. At the end, after the patrol wagons had taken the prisoners to the stations, the square was littered with policemen's caps, a torn uniform overcoat and miscellaneous debris.

Witnesses of the midnight show at which the commotion started said that cooler heads among the students attending tried to get the others to refrain from hurling eggs and other missiles about the theatre.

It was the unexpected portion of this ammunition which started the riot. Students emerging from the theatre peppered men they met in the square. This led to several scattered fist fights. Patrolman James Prior attempted to stop these and was set upon. The square was then filled with surging students and others.

Second Riot in Few Months.

It was the second student riot in this city in recent months and it brought reserves from three stations. Accounts of the origin of the trouble differed but witnesses said a free for all was started when several hundred students poured into the street after attending midnight vaudeville performances at the University Theatre.

A lone policeman on duty in the square quickly sent in a riot call and as wagon loads of officers arrived the students and others were augmented by crowds which surged from dormitories in the Harvard yard.

Police used their sticks freely with the result that the crowd was gradually pushed back into the yard where the city forces were disengaged from entering by college police. In the meantime, however, a shower of varied missiles rained down from dormitory windows on the heads of the besieging force.

Patrolman Joseph O'Connor was badly kicked was taken to a hospital where it was found that his injuries were not serious and later he went home. Two students, Ben Gorman and John J. Shaw, were treated for minor injuries at the same institution and placed under arrest.

Many of the youths who were crowded into the police station were in evening dress and as they awaited their turn to be booked they commented on the possibility of being bailed before morning.

There had been considerable good natured rivalry at the theatre and actors had been greeted by requests as well as verbal bores. The management denied, however, that it had any complaint to make.

The riot was the second here in a few months. Recently students from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology staged a demonstration which resulted in considerable property damage in this city and in New York, and was followed by court sentences for two participants and disciplinary action by the institution against several others.

Coolidge Expects Favorable Report

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP).—The belief is held by President Coolidge that the naval powers signatory to the Washington capital ship limitation treaty will look with favor upon his proposal to extend that treaty to lighter fighting craft, although officials are skeptical over the attitude France might take.

That Great Britain and Japan were favorably impressed with the overtures is indicated in press advices from London and Tokyo. Official comment has still to come from Italy.

The basis for Mr. Coolidge's expectation of favorable consideration is explained at the White House as the reasonableness of the American plan, because it proposes merely an extension of the disarmament formula already agreed upon by the Washington treaty powers.

Quakes Reported At Calexico

Imperial Valley City, Victim Last
New Year's Day of Damaging Earthquakes, Visited Today by Tremors Which Caused Little Damage.

Calexico, Cal., Feb. 12 (AP).—This Imperial valley city, victim last New Year's Day of a series of damaging earthquakes, suffered further, although nominal, damage from a tremor lasting about thirty seconds, felt 12 a. m. today.

The quake was of sufficient force to shake down cornices of buildings damaged by the January 1 quake. The cornice of the Virginia Hotel, condemned as a result of damage suffered New Year's Day, fell into the street.

The first quake was followed 30 minutes later by two light tremors which were a few seconds apart.

Mexican, across the international boundary line from this city and which suffered some damage in the January 1 quakes, reported two shocks, one very sharp.

El Centro and Brawley, cities near here in the valley, reported a heavy shock. Brawley advised said the quake was heavier than those felt January 1. No damage was known to have been caused at either place.

Admitted Double Slayer Sentenced

Waited Five Years for Revenge on Man He Claimed Had Swindled Him—Sentenced to Life Imprisonment.

Portland, Me., Feb. 12 (AP).—Denjamin H. Turner, 36-year-old farmer's son from Mystic, Iowa, and admitted double slayer who five years ago "sentenced to death" the man whom he alleged swindled him of $827, today heard himself doomed to life imprisonment.

Turner was found guilty yesterday of killing James D. Hallen. A jury presided over by the first woman foreman in a Maine murder trial took an even hour to decide his fate.

Turner's trial revealed a strange story of sworn revenge and of relentless pursuit which brought him 3,000 miles from Mexico City to Falmouth, Maine, where last September 8 he shot Hallen after the latter had professed not to recognize him.

The slayer openly conceded the killing and boasted that the same revolver which had ended Hallen's life had been used before to settle an "account" with a Mexican who had swindled him of a few hundred dollars.

It was while he was in a Mexican jail awaiting trial on that charge, Turner alleged, that Hallen swindled him and left him penniless. After his acquittal there, he decided on revenge.

The prisoner testified that the amount of money he lost to Hallen made no difference and that the latter's fate would have been no different had the sum been only as many cents.

Three Actors in Mix- Up on Broadway Friday

Friday afternoon there was a mix-up on Broadway at the West Shore crossing involving the automobile of Herman Weinstein of 124 West 43rd avenue, the truck of the Derrenbacher Candy Company and one of the Van Gonic buses. The truck and the auto were on the way up Broadway when the gates were lowered while the bus was on the way down. Weinstein claimed that the truck forced his car over into the big rut, while Woods, who drove the truck, claimed that Weinstein was trying to beat the line and get across the crossing first and as a result collided with the bus which was on its right side of the street. The damage was not heavy and no one was injured.

Cantonese Will Not Reply to U. S. Proposal

Hankow, Feb. 12 (AP).—It was understood here today that the nationalist (Cantonese) government, would not reply to the proposal of the United States for exemption of Shanghai from the battle area or the eastern battle front.

This position was said to have been taken by the Cantonese on the ground that the American proposal had been improperly addressed. It was believed Eugene Chen, nationalistic foreign minister, would issue a statement shortly regarding the position of his government.

The American proposal, made by Secretary of State Kellogg, was sent simultaneously to Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, head of the northern military, and to Marshal Chang Kai-Shek, military leader of the Cantonese.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

4-MARY GRAM-BONNER

SPRING'S SURPRISE

It had been quite chilly and Melly had had a cold. She had not been out for several days, and the last time she had been out it hadn't looked as though spring had come at all.

She had seen one robin and a good deal earlier she had seen some pussy willows and had picked some for her mother.

But although there were just the faintest signs of buds on the trees there were only three little crocuses blooming in the garden and mostly it seemed as though it would take the trees a long time to have any blossoms.

The first day that she went out it was still quite chilly, although the sun was shining brightly. She was going to take a little walk, but she did not believe she would find much to bring home to her mother.

Her mother always welcomed the little presents that Melly brought back from her walks. Whenever there was a flower to be found Melly found it, so they said at home.

Melly was quite proud of this reputation of hers, but she greatly feared that on this walk she would not be able to find anything, nor even anything to see that she could tell her mother about.

There were many flowers and shrubs that Melly saw but never picked.

She did not want to damage trees and when she picked flowers she did it so carefully that you wouldn't have known she had been picking at all.

Melly loved flowers and she never wanted to be greedy about them.

She had not walked very far when she saw in the distance that the Japa-

Cherry Blossoms Had Suddenly Bloomed.

nese cherry blossoms had suddenly bloomed.

She was so excited about it that she almost wanted to speak to them to tell them what a surprise they had given her.

It seemed as though the sun which warmed her back as she walked along and kept the cold breeze from making her feel chilly had helped in the surprise.

And she was quite sure the wind was singing a song about the beautiful cherry blossoms, for the wind whistled ever so gently.

It somehow seemed to her as though the wind was singing this song:

I've a little secret I must tell,
Listen Melly, listen to me,
The spring rejoices that you are well,
That's why it's all a-bloom, you see.

The spring was taking a very long rest.

You're listening, Melly, to me,
It thought that that was really best,
And the spring is as wise as can be.

But the spring decided it was time to wake up.

You hear what I say, I know:
So the spring asked the sun to blow a warm puff
Of his awakening sunshine and glow.

So the cherry blossoms burst into blossoms so sweet.

You can see for yourself that they did,
And the spring said, "I'll give them all a treat."
And Melly will have a treat, too.

"As a matter of fact," the wind said, "Spring had some other word at the end there, but I didn't quite hear it, so I'm putting in one of my own."

"It may not rhyme but you have the idea," When-she-was you have the idea.

So when Melly went home she had a great deal to tell her mother, of the cherry blossoms that had burst into bloom and given her such a surprise.

Of the song she was quite sure she heard the wind sing, and she also carried back with her five little trailing arbutus flowers—just as fragrant and pink and pretty as they could be.

Her mother was delighted, and Melly was quite thrilled with the surprise that spring had given her.

CLUB LUNCHEON

This is the time of the year when much entertaining is being done. While the budget for these affairs is frequently limited, yet it is possible with careful planning to serve delicious lunches for a very small outlay.

In cold weather there should always be a hot course, either soup or a hot entree with cold meat, potato chips, pickles, rolls, jelly and a dessert. One may serve a fruit cup, sliced smoked tongue, scalloped potatoes, rolls, jelly, olives and dessert. For hot dishes, baked beans, macaroni and cheese, celery cooked and served with cheese sauce, candied sweet potatoes—any one goes nicely with sliced cold meat, tongue or meat loaf or with hot frankfurters. If the meal starts with a cupful of good broth a heavy nourishing salad will take the place of meat, then follow with dessert. The following are a few quantity recipes which will assist in preparing a menu for several:

California Salad Dressing.—Take three-fourths of a cupful of orange juice, one-fourth cupful of lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of sugar, three eggs and two cupfuls of cream. Beat the fruit juices, add salt and sugar and eggs lightly beaten, stirring and cooking in a double boiler. When thick, cool and just before serving add the cream whipped until stiff. This recipe makes one quart of dressing.

Fruit Salad.—Take eight oranges, six bananas, three apples and one can of pineapple. Cut and mix as usual with the above dressing. Serves twenty-five.

Cottage cheese and pear. pear and tomato, stuffed dates with cottage cheese, canned pineapple and pear, all make delicious salads.

A molded vegetable or meat salad is always welcome and when molded always looks well and serves easily and in uniform portions. It may be molded in one large receptacle or mold and cut into uniform sizes.

Something to Remember

One thing they have learned in cold Alaska is to make no attempt to clean a silk or woolen garment in gasoline in the winter time.

Writing in Scribner's Magazine, Mary Lee Davis, the wife of an engineer, says that two women of her acquaintance were burned to death in so doing.

"Just the friction," she says, "of lifting the material from the gasoline bath produces such sparks in the electrified air that an explosion almost invariably occurs."

Although there isn't quite so much electricity in the air in this section of the country, there are few indoor sports more dangerous than washing articles in gasoline.

If you must wash things in gasoline, do it outside.

Time Will Remedy That

They start 'em young out in Hollywood. According to reputable information, Jackie Coogan and his director had a bit of an argument recently while filming the youthful star's latest picture.

"See here, Jackie," began the director, "I've directed bigger stars than you."

Jack interrupted with a scornful look.

"Huger, yes, but only in size," he retorted.

Complete Success

as Albany on determine What
Will Take on Gas Matters to Be

Considerable in-legislative meet-
k State Automo-held at Albany.
15. The most im-to be taken up gas tax, and not in many quar-
attitude that the motorists of the state may take regarding gasoline tax legislation.

At least half a dozen gasoline tax bills have been introduced in the State Legislature this session, and the persistent silence of the New York State Automobile Association on this subject is believed to indicate that no bill has been introduced as yet which the motorists will favor. Naturally, legislators who seek to raise additional funds for various purposes by placing an additional tax on the automobile, are wondering anxiously what attitude the New York State Automobile Association with its 70,000 members will take towards the whole subject, as it is realized that this is the most important state organization interested—representing as it does, all the organized motorists.

Lacey Over Silence.

In fact, it is whispered that the state automobile body's studied silence has made the introducers of gasoline tax legislation uneasy, and also it has made it difficult to line up any great degree of support in either the Senate or Assembly for any single measure. Many members of the Legislature come from sections where the automobile club movement is very strong and influential, and it is said that these representatives are remaining non-committal as to gasoline taxation until they can ascertain the attitude of their constituents who own cars.

The New York State Automobile
Association at its annual meeting last October indicated it might not oppose a gasoline tax bill if registration fees were reduced to a nominal amount sufficient only to cover expenses of the Motor Vehicle Bureau and the issuance of license plates and drivers' certificate. However, since that time the association has maintained a significant silence.

None of the gas tax legislation introduced up to date provides for more than a one-third reduction in license fees, and while neither President H.
A. Meldrum of the State Association nor L. J. Skinner, chairman of the law and legislative committee, will make any definite statement, it is believed that the organization as a whole will oppose all bills now before the Legislature.

May Adopt Definite Stand.

According to a bulletin just sent out from state headquarters, the meeting on February 15 is called to review among other things, all present gas legislation, and to adopt a definite stand. The result will be that when the Bartholomew motor vehicle legislative hearing is called about March 1, the New York State

Automobile Association representatives will be prepared to express definitely the wishes of its membership as developed at the forthcoming meeting.

Following the general legislative meeting on February 15 the law and legislative committee of the State Association will meet with representatives of the Empire State Automobile Merchants Association, the Motor Truck Association of America, the Conference of Mayors and other city officials, and other bodies interested in motor vehicle legislation.
It is possible that these various organizations may reach agreement on certain bills and therefore be able to present a united front.

Increasing Club Services.

On Wednesday, February 16, there will be a meeting of the secretaries of the New York State Association to develop plans for increasing services given by the various automobile clubs to their members.

In the last few months a new plan of state-wide emergency road service has been developed by the State Association, and it is reported that between 400 and 600 parages are now under contract to give service to members of all the various clubs affiliated with the state body. At Wednesday's meeting the progress
thus far made will be thoroughly gone over and details will be worked out to perfect the service between now and the opening of the touring season about May 1. The ultimate object of the State Association is to have a sufficient number of parages so located that no matter where a member may be travelling in New York state, he will never be more than 6 to 10 miles from one of the official service stations.

Ernest Smith, general manager of the American Automobile Association, with which the New York state body is affiliated, will be present in the afternoon to explain two new and important developments in the national service to members of automobile clubs.

Other subjects to be discussed by this secretaries' meeting will be increasing membership, improving the touring information bureau, safety campaigns for the automobile club, etc.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAM-BONNER

SPRING'S SURPRISE

It had been quite chilly and Melly had had a cold. She had not been out for several days, and the last time she had been out it hadn't looked as though spring had come at all.

She had seen one robin and a good deal earlier she had seen some pussy willows and had picked some for her mother.

But although there were just the faintest signs of buds on the trees there were only three little crocus flowers blooming in the garden and mostly it seemed as though it would take the trees a long time to have any blossoms.

The first day that she went out it was still quite chilly, although the sun was shining brightly. She was going to take a little walk, but she did not believe she would find much to bring home to her mother.

Her mother always welcomed the little presents that Melly brought back from her walks. Whenever there was a flower to be found Melly found it, so they said at home.

Melly was quite proud of this reputation of hers, but she greatly feared that on this walk she would not be able to find anything, nor even anything to see that she could tell her mother about.

There were many flowers and shrubs that Melly saw but never picked.

She did not want to damage trees, and when she picked flowers she did it so carefully that you wouldn't have known she had been picking at all.

Melly loved flowers and she never wanted to be greedy about them.

She had not walked very far when she saw in the distance that the Japa-

ne cherry blossoms had suddenly bloomed.

She was so excited about it that she almost wanted to speak to them to tell them what a surprise they had given her.

It seemed as though the sun which warmed her back as she walked along had kept the cold breeze from making her feel chilly had helped in the surprise.

And she was quite sure the wind was singing a song about the beautiful cherry blossoms, for the wind whistled ever so gently.

It somehow seemed to her as though the wind was singing this song:

I've a little secret I must tell,
Listen Melly, listen to me,
The spring rejoices that you are well,
That's why it's all about you see.

The spring was taking a very long rest.

You're listening, Melly, to me,
It thought that that was really best,
And the spring is as wise as can be.

But the spring decided it was time to wake up.

You hear what I say, I know,
So the spring asked the sun to blow a warm puff
Of his awakening sunshine and glow.

So the cherry blossoms burst into blossoms so sweet.

You can see for yourself that they did.

And the spring said, "I'll give them all a treat,
And Melly will have a treat, too."

"As a matter of fact," the wind said, "Spring had some other word at the end there, but I didn't quite hear it, so I'm putting in one of my own."

"It may not rhyme but you have the idea," when she heard you have the idea.

So when Melly went home she had a great deal to tell her mother, of the song she was quite sure she heard the wind sing, and she carried back with her five little trailing arbutus flowers—just as fragrant and pink and pretty as they could be.

Her mother was delighted, and Melly was quite thrilled with the surprise that spring had given her.

Worthy of Death

"Throw up your hands, I'm going to shoot you."

"What, for?"

"I always said if I ever met a man lovelier than I, I'd kill him."

"Am I lovelier than you?"

"You certainly are."

"Well, then, go ahead and shoot,"—The American Boy.

The Poisonous Kind

"Mother, wouldn't it be nice if you could have a toothache instead of me?"

"Why, dear?"

"Because you can take your teeth out and I can't."

CLUB LUNCHEON

This is the time of the year when much entertaining is being done. While the budget for these affairs is frequently limited, yet it is possible with careful planning to serve delicious lunches for a very small outlay.

In cold weather there should always be a hot course, either soup or a hot entrée with cold meat, potato chips, pickles, rolls, jelly and a dessert. One may serve a fruit cup, sliced smoked tongue, scalloped potatoes, rolls, jelly, olives and dessert. For hot dishes, baked beans, macaroni and cheese, celery cooked and served with cheese sauce, candied sweet potatoes—any one goes nicely with sliced cold meat, tongue or meat loaf or with hot frankfurters. If the meal starts with a cupful of good broth a heavy nourishing salad will take the place of meat, then follow with dessert. The following are a few quantity recipes which will assist in preparing a menu for several:

California Salad Dressing—Take three-fourths of a cupful of orange juice, one-fourth cupful of lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of sugar, three eggs and two cupfuls of cream. Beat the fruit juices, add salt and sugar and eggs lightly beaten, stirring and cooking in a double boiler. When thick, cool, and just before serving add the cream whipped until stiff. This recipe makes one quart of dressing.

Fruit Salad—Take eight oranges, six bananas, three apples and one can of pineapple. Cut and mix as usual with the above dressing. Serves twenty-five.

Cottage cheese and pear, pear and tomato, stuffed dates with cottage cheese, canned pineapple and pear, all make delicious salads.

A molded vegetable or meat salad is always welcome and when molded always looks well and serves easily and in uniform portions. It may be molded in one large receptacle or mold and cut into uniform sizes.

Something to Remember

One thing they have learned in cold Alaska is to flake no attempt to clean a silk or woolen garment in gasoline in the winter time.

Writing in Scribner's Magazine, Mary Lee Davis, the wife of an engineer, says that two women of her acquaintance were burned to death in so doing.

"Just the friction," she says, "of lifting the material from the gasoline tank produces such sparks in the electrified air that an explosion almost invariably occurs."

Although there isn't quite so much electricity in the air in this section of the country, there are few indoor sports more dangerous than washing articles in gasoline.

If you must wash things in gasoline, do it outside.

Time Will Remedy That

They start you young out in Hollywood. According to reputable information, Jackie Coogan and his director had a bit of an argument recently while filming the youthful star's latest picture.

"See here, Jackie," began the director, "I've directed bigger stars than you."

Jack interrupted with a scornful look.

"Bigger, yes, but only in size," he retorted.

Complete Success

Young Housewife—Are you sure this cleaner that you are selling will really take out the dirt?

Agent—Well, it? Say, lady, yesterday I rubbed some of it on a copy of Bradshaw's Starline and when I got through I had the Sunday School Certificate!—The Magazine.

But Times Have Changed

I am remembering when the guy who got kicked out for putting overtime on the boss who was occupying space on the old business card in the pocket.

Any Matters for the Auto Assoc.

Meeting at Albany on Monday May Determine What Association Will Take on Gas Taxation—Other Matters to Be Discussed.

May, Feb. 12.—Considerable interest attaches to the legislative meeting of the New York State Automobile Association to be held at Albany, Monday, February 13. The most important proposition to be taken up is the proposed gas tax, and the possible attitude that the motorists of the state may take regarding gasoline tax legislation. At least half a dozen gasoline tax bills have been introduced in the State Legislature this session, and the persistent silence of the New York State Automobile Association on the subject is believed to indicate that no bill has been introduced as yet which the motorists will favor. Naturally, legislators who seek to raise additional funds for various purposes by placing an additional tax on the automobile, are wondering anxiously what attitude the New York State Automobile Association with its 70,000 members will take towards the whole subject, as it is realized that this is the most important state organization interested—representing as it does, all the organized motorists.

Unsettled Over Silence. In fact, it is whispered that the state automobile body's studied silence has made the introduction of gasoline tax legislation uneasy, and also it has made it difficult to line up any great degree of support in either the Senate or Assembly for any single measure. Many members of the Legislature come from sections where the automobile club movement is very strong and influential, and it is said that these representatives are remaining non-committal as to gasoline taxation until they can ascertain the attitude of their constituents who own cars.

The New York State Automobile Association at its annual meeting last October indicated it might not oppose a gasoline tax bill if registration fees were reduced to a nominal amount sufficient only to cover expenses of the Motor Vehicle Bureau and the issuance of license plates and drivers' certificate. However, since that time the association has maintained a significant silence. None of the gas tax legislation introduced up to date provide for more than a one-third reduction in license fees, and while neither President H. A. Meldrum of the State Association nor L. J. Skinner, chairman of the law and legislative committee, will make any definite statement, it is believed that the organization as a whole will oppose all bills now before the Legislature.

May Adopt Definite Stand. According to a bulletin just sent out from state headquarters, the meeting on February 13 is called to review among other things, all present gas legislation, and to adopt a definite stand. The result will be that when the Bartholemew motor vehicle legislative hearing is called, about March 1, the New York State Automobile Association representatives will be prepared to express definitely the wishes of its membership as developed at the forthcoming meeting.

Following the general legislative meeting on February 15 the law and legislative committee of the State Association will meet with representatives of the Empire State Automobile Merchants Association, the Motor Truck Association of America, the Conference of Mayors and other city officials, and other bodies interested in motor vehicle legislation. It is possible that these various organizations may reach agreement on certain bills and therefore be able to present a united front.

Increasing Club Service. On Wednesday, February 16, there will be a meeting of the secretaries of the New York State Association to develop plans for increasing services given by the various automobile clubs to their members.

In the last few months a new plan of state-wide emergency road service has been developed by the State Association, and it is reported that between 400 and 500 garages are now under contract to give service to members of all the various clubs affiliated with the state body. At Wednesday's meeting the progress thus far made will be thoroughly gone over and details will be worked out to perfect the service between now and the opening of the touring season about May 1. The ultimate object of the State Association is to have a sufficient number of garages so located that no matter where a member may be traveling in New York state, he will never be more than 6 to 10 miles from one of the official service stations.

Ernest Smith, general manager of the American Automobile Association, with which the New York state body is affiliated, will be present in the afternoon to explain two new and important developments in the national service to members of automobile clubs.

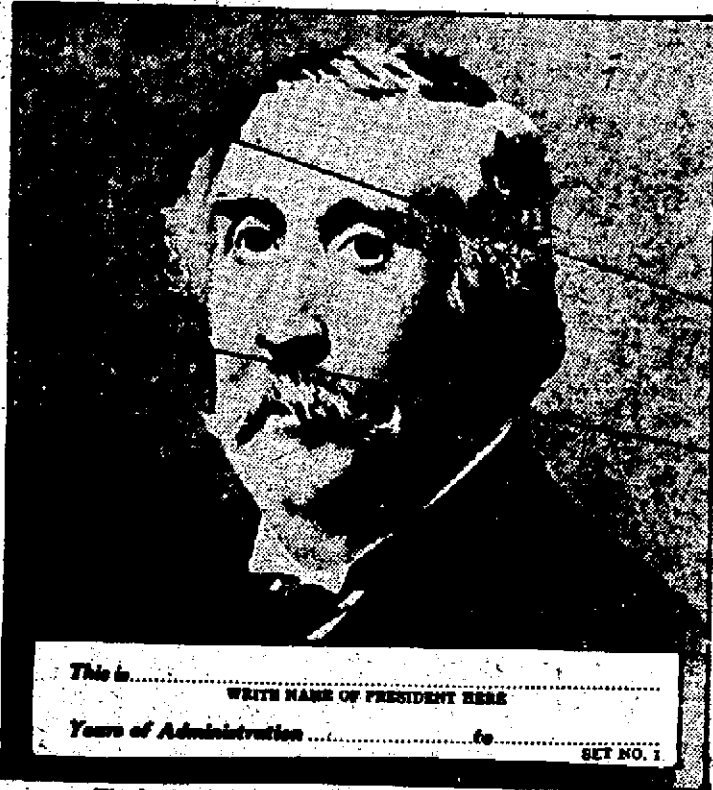

Other subjects to be discussed by this secretaries' meeting will be increasing membership, improving touring information bureau, safety campaigns for the automobile club, etc.

Junior Play Scores Big Hit

The little members of St. Mary's Junior Dramatic Club and their director, Mrs. E. P. Ward, were highly commended by all and especially the pastor, the Rev. Joseph B. Kelly, for the almost incredible manner in which they presented "Hinky Doodle Town," a rural musical comedy, Friday night at St. Mary's school hall, before a very large attendance.

Father Kelly addressed the audience at the termination of the production and rendered the most favorable criticism of the entertainment. He said it was remarkable the way in which the children with such marked ease appeared before the large audience and interpreted the comedy. Due consideration was also paid to Mrs. E. P. Ward who coached the children for the event and it was said that she rendered the little ones a great aid in preparing them to appear before the public, which may be of value to them in the future.

The musical comedy was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience that crowded the large hall and the officials in charge of the production wish to extend their many thanks to all the patrons.

In order that the school children may have a chance to see the play it will again be presented on Sunday afternoon in the school hall.

ULSTER COUNTY HISTORY CLUB

While awaiting replies to the question asked a few days ago, and the asking of other questions, here are some interesting "personals" of 150 years ago. They were written in connection with a list of troopers in Kingston in 1664-1667 and are from the pen of Miss Alma Rogers Van Heerbaug.

Jacob Aarsten (Van Wageningen). Wageningen, on the Rhine, in Gelderland, is today the home of the Agricultural College of the Netherlands, which has a special department of tropical agriculture to prepare young men for the colonial problems in both the Dutch East Indies and West Indies. Furthermore there is a well known patriotic family in The Netherlands, bearing this name, Van Wageningen.

John Matison (Van Keuren or Keulen). Keulen is the Dutch form of Cologne, as Leuven is the Dutch or Flemish (practically synonymous, since the language is almost identical) of the famous city and university of Louvain, which is in the present Belgium, once the Southern Netherlands.

John Pooker (Fokker) (Heerbaug). May he not be of the stock, which the originator of the Dutch flying machine, the Pooker plane, represents today. Pooker, now associated with Henry Ford, has taken the preliminary steps to American citizenship. Kingston should have a peculiar interest in him, on this account.

Abraham Lamatter. This name we know today, as Delamater oldest records give it as De la Matre.

Milk Sold in City Excellent

January Tests of Milk Notified in Kingston Brought Out Fact That Milk Was of Exceptionally Fine Quality.

Probably the best report ever submitted since milk tests were made in Kingston was that read Friday evening at the board of health meeting at the city hall. The report made by Miss B. Eleanor Easton, of the city laboratory, showed that all of the milk dealers had more than met the required standards of the board in the grade of milk sold to the consumer during January.

The report, which is of interest to every milk consumer in Kingston, follows:

Caution and Courtesy Are Twin Life Savers

Courtesy, National Safety Council

Although numerous communities are constantly broadening the width of their boulevards, some motorists never will have enough room. Here we have an instance wherein the driver of the car at the right isn't leaving enough space for the other fellow, who could have avoided the scrape by hugging the left a little more. Motorists should always slow up when going around a curve, especially if there is another car ahead.

A New COUPE by PAIGE

- at only $1095

PAIGE—and only Paige—has a real Style Coupe at low cost. It has a Coupe that rivals the most costly in beauty of body line, and interior appointments. It has a Coupe with a larger and more powerful motor—speedier, and more quickly accelerated. And yet a Coupe that sells at an amazingly low price—a price possible only because of the tremendous (and extremely economical) production facilities of the new Paige plant.

This new Paige Coupe on the 6-45 chassis offers far more in every way than do ordinary Coupes. Its French wings, stylish landau bows, and bright fabric rear quarters give it a trim and jaunty appearance. The lines are extraordinarily graceful, with a double belt molding, integral sun visor and rounded roof. The interior is uncommonly spacious, and there is a surprising amount of storage room. The extra wide seat is upholstered to match the handsome body finish. The whole interior is exquisitely beautiful.

You should see this new Paige Coupe at your earliest convenience. A demonstration entails no obligation.

Service Comes First

The most satisfactory thing in all this earthly life is to be able to serve our fellow beings—first, those who are bound to us by ties of love; then, the wider circle of fellow townsmen, fellow countrymen, or fellow men. To be of service is a solid foundation for contentment in this world.—Charles W. Elliot.

Dr. James Madison, second cousin of the President of the United States of that name, was elected president of William and Mary College when he was only twenty-eight years old. It was necessary, before he could assume office, to suppress a statute requiring that the head of the institution be not less than thirty years old. The young college president, who was ordained in the Episcopal ministry in 1773, was an ardent believer in the republican form of government. It is said that in his sermons he never would speak of heaven as a kingdom. He would always refer to it as the "great republic" where there is no distinction of rank, and where all men are free and equal.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Embarrassed
He was enjoying the picture at a downtown theater recently when he was disturbed from his leisure by a coin rolling from his pocket. The coin fell to the floor with a clink and continued its course to the orchestra pit. The rather embarrassed man was aware of the denotation of the lost coin and proceeded to go after it. Being unable to find it, he summoned two ushers, who asked him with flashlights. At last, after quite a search, the coin was found, and when it was picked up, there in the finder's hand lay a shining young.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

WITH WOOL INTRUDING INTO THE FIELD OF SILK DRESSES, IT MAY HAPPEN THAT COTTON ONES MAY STAGE A COME-BACK

Cairo, Egypt—For some time before leaving America, there was considerable agitation among the cotton trade to revive the cool and comfortable and not luxurious practice of wearing cotton dresses. The propaganda that had been issued to promote cottons was not productive of much fruit, however.

Women showed a natural preference for silk when it was the same price as cotton, or rather when cotton had been boosted to the price of silk. Brains and brawn were put behind the movement, and the result probably will be that the southern season will give added impetus to cotton, especially as there are some worthy designs in this material.

With all this in mind, diligent search has been made in Cairo for cotton dresses, not so much as worn by the tourists, but as displayed in the shops for those who call Cairo home. The outlook is not particularly striking. One finds all sorts of daytime frocks in virtually every sort of fabric but cotton, and one comes to the conclusion that the only way in which cotton may be made to appeal is by combining it with silk or with something that will infuse new life and some element of style into it.

Since some silks are apt to be affected by the heat and humidity of tropical countries, it seems as though there was every reason for women of fashion to be drawn to smart cotton dresses. With wool being in a fair way to sweep silks into their logical sphere, which is for evening wear, it may develop that cotton will be encouraged for daytime wear.

Crepes having become exceedingly popular here, there, and everywhere, it may be that a cotton crepe may come as came crepe, one of the wool successes of the year. But for the woman who cannot afford to gamble, the wool and silk wardrobe is the safest bet.

Attire Hard to Adjust
The original dress of the Scottish Highlander was the Celtic kilt-bracan, or belted plaid, this being a piece of tartan cloth two yards broad and four long, drawn around the waist in carefully adjusted folds, and firmly buckled with a belt. Like the modern kilt, the lower part reached the knees while the upper was fixed to the shoulder in a manner to permit perfect freedom of the right arm. It was usually employed as a covering for the shoulders. It required considerable dexterity for a Highlander to entice himself in a belted plaid. The method usually employed was to lay it on the floor and, after the folds had been carefully arranged, to lie down upon it and buckle it on.—Vancouver Province.

Amateur Outdoor Skating Events

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP).—Hustling weather marked the last day of the international amateur outdoor speed skating championships on Mirror Lake today. Snow squalls, blown by a stiff wind, swept across the rink as the stars of the ice tuned up for the final races this afternoon, which will determine the 1927 titleholder.

The remaining senior events are the 220 yard and the five mile races. Charles Gorman of St. John, N. B., Canadian champion, was leading the field with 110 points, but either Vincent Bialis of this village, the defending champion, or O'Neil Farrell of Chicago had a chance to take that title. Thirty points are awarded for first place, twenty for second and ten for third.

Bialis, who had been skating slightly behind his 1926 form, was the star in yesterday's events, winning the three-quarter mile event and taking second place in the half mile, which was won by Gorman.

WILLIE HOPPE LEADS COCHRAN, 1,000 TO 705

Boston, Feb. 12 (AP)—Willie Hoppe, champion of the world at 182 baik-line billiards, today was leading his challenger, Welker Cochran of Los Angeles, 1,000 to 705 in their three-day 1,500-point title match.

Hoppe came from behind last night to overcome a lead of 166 piled up by Cochran at their first encounter Thursday.

After a poor start he swept into the lead in the seventh inning of the night's play with a run of 154, the highest of the match. He followed this with others of 112 and 152.

Cochran seemed unable to get under way. He did succeed, however, in staging a comeback in the fourteenth inning that brought him 77 in a spectacular burst of open table play.

The night's work netted the champion 666 or an average of 44 6-15 for 15 innings. Cochran's average was only 12 10-15 and his total 255. Match averages to date stand, Cochran 12 2-27; Hoppe 27 1-27.

There is no "catch" in his scheme, Graham said. He wants to get to California and hopes to land in the movies, and hit upon the golf ball like as the most feasible solution of his problems.

K. H. S. Five Lost To Poughkeepsie

Kingston High School basketball team worked but with no avail against Coach Kallach's squad of the Poughkeepsie High School Friday in the down-river city. The score at the end of the hard battle was 24 to 12 with Kingston on the small end. A shooting spurt in the third frame clinched the contest for the Poughkeepsie boys for during the first half the Maroon and White quintet kept an even pace with the victors.

After intermission the quintets took the floor with the score 7 to 7. The Poughkeepsians at once started a flashy attack and had the Kingston boys puzzled for awhile. By the time the local ball tossers realized what their adversaries were about the score was rolled too high to stage a comeback.

Poughkeepsie may credit much to Lucien, their flashy forward, for the victory over Kingston. This player made more markers than the whole local aggregation. His score for the game was 15 points and they were obtained from every angle of the court.

Scully was the outstanding scorer for Kingston High School and received an aggregate of five ironmen. Two points was the next highest individual score that could be obtained by several other individuals on Coach O'Leary's quintet.

Kingston started the game with a flash. Scully and Jones both dropped the ball for a field piece but the opposing quintet soon became familiar with the method of play and prevented further additions in easy manner.
